

IT'S TIME TO MAKE A CHOICE: WHO WILL CONTROL YOUR FUTURE?

"As an at-will employee, my raises were entirely at the discretion of LabCorp. Before we started organizing, my yearly raises ranged from pennies each year to 20 cents.

When filed for our union election, Labcorp sent out a notice that we will be getting drastic raises in July. LabCorp hopes these raises will convince other workers in Southern California that they don't need a union - but we know that we only got these raises because we came together and organized.

We're taking charge of our future, and it started with voting to join the union."

"I am a Kaiser Permanente laboratory professional and have been a member of the UFCW for almost 24 years.

My union contract means that I already know what my raise will be next year and my family can plan accordingly. That's the security of having a union contract.

I am so thankful to be a UFCW member and part of a team of passionate folks who stand up for each other so that everyone is treated fairly and paid well for the important work that we do."

As members of the UFCW, LabCorp workers are coming together to negotiate for fair wages. We don't have to settle for sporadic raises that don't keep up with the cost of living — together, we can have a seat at the table to help write our own contract.

Take your seat at the table by joining your coworkers at LabWorkersUnited.org.
